INTRODUCTION

•Environmental science is the study of patterns and processes in the natural world and their modification by human activities. Environmental impacts on earth come from the number of people and the amount and types of resources that they use.

•Environment is the sum total of conditions in which an organism has to survive or maintain its life process. It influences the growth and development of living forms.

•Earth is unique - It is the only planet that has been supporting life as known. Human civilization has taken giant strides in the field of science, technology and industry. But on the flip side, it has witnessed rapid depletion of forest, over population, soil, water and air pollution with unsustainable use of planet's resources. Thus, the environment has drawn worldwide attention for its protection and sustainable management.

•In a nut shell, the objectives of environmental studies are to develop a world in which persons are aware of and concerned about environment and the problems associated with it, and committed to work individually as well as collectively towards solutions of current problems and prevention of future problems. This online training will be conducted with special reference to Oil Palm cultivation.
