ABOUT CONFERENCE

The palm oil milling industry is entering a pivotal phase of transformation, shaped by intensifying sustainability expectations, stricter regulatory requirements, rising cost pressures, and rapid technological advancement. Mills are increasingly expected to operate at higher levels of efficiency while simultaneously reducing environmental impact, improving traceability, ensuring compliance, and developing a skilled and resilient workforce. In this evolving landscape, the ability to reinvent milling excellence has become critical to the long-term competitiveness of the palm oil industry.

Malaysia remains a global leader in palm oil production, with milling operations forming the backbone of value creation across the supply chain. As downstream requirements become more demanding and global scrutiny increases, palm oil mills must continuously improve operational performance, strengthen Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) practices, and adopt innovation-driven solutions. Aligning efficiency, compliance, and human capital development is no longer optional. It is essential for sustaining industry relevance and global market access.

Against this backdrop, the International Palm Oil Millers Conference 2026 (IPOMC 2026) will be held from 23-25 April 2026 at the Royale Chulan, Kuala Lumpur. IPOMC 2026 serves as a dedicated international platform for millers, engineers, technologists, researchers, regulators, and business leaders to engage in meaningful dialogue on the future of palm oil milling. Anchored by the theme "Reinventing Milling Excellence: Technology, Sustainability & Human Capital for a New Era," the Conference highlights the need for integrated solutions that balance productivity, responsibility, and people development.

The Conference will bring together key stakeholders across the milling ecosystem to explore practical strategies, emerging technologies, and policy developments shaping the next generation of palm oil mills. Through keynote presentations, technical papers, panel discussions, and case studies, participants will examine real-world challenges and identify actionable pathways to enhance mill efficiency, strengthen compliance, and improve business resilience.

IPOMC 2026 will feature four focused modules aligned with the industry's most pressing priorities:

1. Efficiency, Operational Excellence & Food Safety
2. Compliance, ESG & Regulatory
3. Competitiveness / Business & Talent
4. Technology & Innovation

These sessions will address critical topics including automation and digitalisation, energy optimisation, waste and by-product management, regulatory compliance, ESG integration, workforce capability building, and innovation in milling systems and processes.

IPOMC 2026 aims to foster collaboration, encourage knowledge exchange, and inspire forward-looking solutions that empower millers to navigate change with confidence. By bringing together expertise from across regions and disciplines, the Conference seeks to strengthen the palm oil milling sector's ability to remain efficient, sustainable, and globally competitive in a rapidly changing era.

A warm welcome is extended to all delegates, speakers, exhibitors, and industry partners.

We invite you to join us at IPOMC 2026, a key international forum where ideas converge, innovation is showcased, and the future of palm oil milling excellence is shaped.
